

SquareUp — Acceptable Use Policy

Effective date: May 21, 2026

This Acceptable Use Policy (the "AUP") governs the use of SquareUp's services by clients and their Authorized Users. It is incorporated into the Master Services Agreement (Document 2); capitalised terms have the meanings given there. SquareUp may update this AUP from time to time, and the current version applies to ongoing use of the Services.

1. Scope and purpose

SquareUp's services are powerful research tools: they involve contacting real people, recording conversations, and processing personal data. This AUP sets the rules that keep that use lawful, ethical, and safe for participants. Violations may lead to suspension or termination under the Agreement.

2. Consent and lawful basis for contacts you provide

If you supply Client Contacts for SquareUp to invite to interviews, you must, before doing so:

- have a valid legal basis and all consents required by applicable law to share those contacts with SquareUp and to have those individuals contacted, interviewed, and recorded for research on your behalf;
- for any individual to be reached by outbound telephone call, hold the prior express consent required by the U.S. TCPA and FCC rules — including for calls using an artificial or AI-generated voice — and comply with applicable do-not-call rules and permitted calling hours;
- honour every opt-out, do-not-call, and do-not-contact request, and not provide contacts who have asked not to be contacted; and
- provide only contacts for adults aged 18 and over.

3. Prohibited research uses

You must not use the Services, or the resulting Insights, to:

- make, or substantially inform, decisions that produce legal or similarly significant effects on an individual — including decisions about employment, credit or lending, housing, insurance, education, healthcare, or access to essential goods, services, or government benefits;
- discriminate against individuals or groups in violation of applicable law, or to facilitate unlawful profiling;
- target, screen for, or knowingly interview anyone under 18;
- use deceptive or misleading screeners, pretexts, or interview content, or misrepresent who is conducting the research or why;
- conduct political, electoral, or issue-advocacy calling, or any calling regulated as telemarketing, unless expressly agreed with SquareUp and compliant with the applicable rules; or

- carry out research that is harassing, intimidating, or designed to manipulate or exploit participants.

4. Prohibited content and conduct

You must not use the Services to upload, generate, or transmit content that is unlawful, infringing, defamatory, obscene, hateful, harassing, or harmful, or that contains malware; to impersonate any person or entity; to infringe intellectual-property or privacy rights; or to interfere with, probe, or attempt to gain unauthorised access to the Services or their security.

5. Sensitive and special-category data

Do not design studies to collect sensitive personal data — such as health, biometric, precise-location, financial-account, government-identifier, racial or ethnic, religious, sexual-orientation, or children's data — unless it is genuinely necessary for the research, you have a lawful basis and any required heightened consent, and you have told SquareUp in advance so appropriate safeguards can be applied.

6. No re-identification

You must not attempt to re-identify any individual from de-identified or aggregated data, or combine data in a way intended to identify a participant beyond what the study and the participant's consent allow.

7. Security and platform integrity

You must keep account credentials secure, ensure your Authorized Users comply with this AUP, not share access beyond your permitted users, and not reverse engineer, scrape, overload, or disrupt the Services.

8. Compliance with law

You are responsible for your own compliance with all laws applicable to your business and your research, including telemarketing and call-recording laws, privacy and data-protection laws, consumer-protection and advertising laws, and AI-disclosure laws.

9. Consequences of violation

If SquareUp reasonably believes this AUP has been violated, it may investigate, suspend or limit access, remove offending content or data, or terminate the Agreement as provided there. SquareUp may also notify and cooperate with authorities where required by law. Suspension will be used proportionately, and SquareUp will aim to give notice where it can reasonably do so.

10. Reporting

To report a suspected violation or a concern about misuse of the Services, contact hello@joinsquareup.com or hello@joinsquareup.com.
